During the month of April I will be featuring a Cherry Blossom Photo of the Day, sourced from the Miss604 Flickr Pool and/or the #Photos604 tag on Instagram. You can barely walk a full block in the city without encountering a photographer capturing this pink blooms — or stopping yourself — so it's the perfect time to start this series. Enjoy!

The canopy is filling in at the Stanley Park Rose Garden. Blossoms lead you to forest paths and if you know where to look, just around the corner from here is a permanent tribute to Shakespeare himself.
